

"WITH SWEETEST FLOWERS ENRICH'D, FROM VARIOUS GARDENS CULL'D WITH CARE."

VOL. XII—NO. 11.

NEW-YORK, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1799.

WHOLE NO. 583.

THE TWO CASTLES.

A ROMANCE.

[CONCLUDED.]

We pass through want to wealth; through dismal strife
To calm content; through death to endless life.

SAVAGE.

IN the morning Ella opened the packet found by Oda, which contained a certificate of her mother's marriage with the Marquis. The manuscript, which contained father Luke's life, seemed to have been written at hasty snatched intervals, and was in many places almost illegible; but its being addressed to her mother inspired her with a sufficient motive for persevering in the perusal of it. It ran thus:

"To account for my interference in your affairs, it may, perhaps, be deemed necessary to acquaint you with the motives which impelled me to countenance and take an active part in a proceeding that may, in the eyes of the world, be deemed reprehensible. Hard is the task, Theodora, to inspire you with abhorrence of the man who gave you birth: yet such must be your sentiment after the reading of this.

"My parents were of respectable family, though not affluent; and at their death I was left quite a child, to the guardianship of the Baron la Marche, who had then a son about my own age. We were brought up together with very little distinction; and, as my parents had left me a handsome independence, I continued to pursue my studies with the young La Marche.

"About that time the Countess du Barre came to visit the Baron, her brother, and brought with her her daughter Antonia. The beauty of the latter could not but make an impression upon my heart, then warm and susceptible; which prepossession her virtue and gentle temper confirmed, and I flattered myself I was not altogether indifferent to her: but, alas! I soon found all my hopes on that head were futile; for it was soon declared to be the intention of the Baron and herself to unite Antonia with young La Marche, whom I had unwarily made my confidant in this affair. With all the speciousness of which he had such great share, he made me the most solemn promise to assist my suit, in preference to his own pretensions, and that he felt not the least regard for Antonia.

"Not in the least suspecting his duplicity, I consented to make one in a party of pleasure, which drew me from the Castle some weeks. At my return a dreadful alteration had taken place: Antonia had been forcibly dragged to the altar, and united to La Marche. Stung with rage, I would have instantly made a sacrifice of him for his perfidy; but even my guardian was decidedly against me.

"Not able to endure the dreadful torment of seeing Antonia in the arms of another, I quitted Montreuil, leaving Claude, with orders to acquaint me of all their proceedings, and then wandered through the country. At different times I learned from Claude that the Baron was very ill, and that Antonia was the mother of a lovely little girl.

"At length the death of my guardian occasioned me to return, to claim that property which remained in his hands. I own I imprudently cherished a hope of seeing my Antonia once more; which hope was (fatally for her peace!) gratified. The young Baron received me with much condescension; and, out of regard to the peace of a woman so dear to me, I smothered the resentment that burned within me.

"Passing a chamber-door, one morning, which stood open, I heard the voice of Antonia as if in complaint. The Baron being from home, I ventured in, and saw the devoted Baroness leaning over her infant in an agony of tears. At my entrance, she started from her seat; but at once, overcome with agitation, sunk again upon the chair. I flew to her. The words 'Dearest Antonia!' escaped my lips. She cast at me a reproachful glance, such a one as I shall never forget.

"Clairville!" said she, "do you design to render me still more wretched by your presence?"

"I dropped on my knees.—'Oh, Antonia! forgive me! I flaid but for one interview with you, to tell you, that, miserable as you may be, there is one yet more so, who lived but for you, and now fears not to die for you.'

"She interrupted me: 'Why make this confession, as unavailing to you as injurious to me? Oh, Clairville, fly! We must never meet again! But, mark me! should the Baron's ill treatment affect my life, as I much apprehend; for my sake, for that of my infant, lift not your hand against the Baron. Be to my Theodora a protector, a friend.'

"She fell upon my shoulder, and wept bitterly. I clasped her, with the child, to my breast, and swore never to forsake it.

"At that moment I was seized by the servants of the Baron; who, with his sister, the Countess, entered. I was torn from Antonia, taunted with the most opprobrious menaces, and thrown into a damp and cheerless dungeon under the Castle.

"The servant who had the charge of me was the brother of Claude, and very much attached to me, having always been his friend in my youth. Under such circumstances, it may be supposed I easily prevailed upon him to liberate me; and the Baron was imposed upon with the story of my death.

"I fled to Padua, having first learned that the Baron had, in the frenzy of his vengeance, sworn never again to behold his wife, and had immured her within the walls of the Convent St. Clare; but found it impossible, from the strictness of the order, to gain admission.

"Finding all my prospects thus blasted, I again turned my thoughts to the profession in which I had been educated, and was admitted of the order of Capuchins then in the Monastery of St. Egbert, several of whom confessed the sisters of St. Clare. It was thus I had it in my power to confer happiness to my Theodora, by introducing her to the Marquis; but was denied the satisfaction of revealing myself to her. I had suffered too much by paternal authority, to divide those whose hearts were entwined in the bonds of virtuous affection.

"I retired to the Monastery; where I found father Michael, who was confessor to the lady Abbess of St. Clare, at the point of death. He lived but a few hours, and I was chosen to fill his place.

"The Abbess, being once seized with a dangerous illness, confessed to me a horrid secret; which was, that she had engaged with the Baron to poison Antonia; who was then dying, owing partly to the torments that had been inflicted on her to induce her to confess her criminal attachment, and partly by the impaired state of her constitution, occasioned by the anguish of her mind. I was so much shocked as to be upon the point of discovering myself by my emotion; but, recollecting how much was at stake, I concealed my feelings, and heard the remainder of her confession, which was very minute. I enjoined her a severe penance, and compelled her to abandon her diabolical intentions. Alas! my zeal was of little service; for I had shortly after the agony of being obliged to read the funeral service over my loved Antonia. From that time I devoted myself to the most austere life. You, dear Theodora, know all the rest"

It was with difficulty that Ella had made out so much of it, and now returned it to her pocket, almost blinded by her tears: the entrance of Lord Edmund soon dispelled them. After making her the warmest professions of regard, he acquainted her that it was their intention to return to Lord Donkeith, as it was so much his desire to receive and pardon them; after which he hoped he should receive from her an answer favorable to those wishes which he was now at liberty to encourage and avow.

Ella referred him to the decision of lady Margaretta; declaring, that when she favored the suit of her uncle, she would not hesitate to grant equal indulgence to his petition; meaning to employ the interval of their absence in writing information of what had passed to father Luke, whose letters she showed him, not willing at that time to aggravate the distress of Baron Theodore.

The next object of their concern was Oda, who recovered from his wounds, and laid himself under the most solemn vows to quit the country; the rest of his companions being totally dispersed by the officers of the police.

Father Luke soon wrote a congratulatory answer; and, as Lord Edmund received the immediate consent of his father, he lost no time in his journey, expediting as much as possible his return to Montreuil; where he claimed, as the reward for his expedition, the hand of Ella; no longer the obscure humble La Motte, but the heiress to an immense fortune, all her property being refunded by Theodore, and possessor of as much virtue as beauty. Jaqueline and Pierre were taken into their service, and grew grey in the family. Lady Margaretta enjoys equal happiness in her union with Theodore, whose generosity and goodness was the admiration of the country.—And once more happiness revisited the respective possessors of the Two Castles.

MAXIM.

There ought to be a certain proportion between the designs and actions, if we would reap from them all the advantage they might be productive of.

Conclusion of a SERMON, preached in the Middle Dutch Church, last Sunday morning, by the Rev. Dr Linn.

"WE are witnesses this day, that no character however exalted, that no services however long continued and extensive, can save from the stroke of death.-----What means this melancholy sound of Bells which daily strikes our ears?-----What means this sorrow which marks the face of every Citizen?-----What mean these sable ensigns which are hung in our very Churches?-----Have any of our Cities been destroyed by fire, or swallowed by earthquakes?-----Do hostile fleets and invading armies threaten us with immediate slavery or death?-----No;-----WASHINGTON, the boast of our nation, under God, and the admiration of the world, is no more!-----

"There is not such another to die.-----Few such have ever existed upon this earth. God endowed him with superior qualities, and afforded him occasions for their full display. When he retired from the command of the Army, every one supposed that he had attained to the pinnacle of greatness, and would recline in safety the remainder of his days beneath a shade of Laurels at Mount Vernon; but we behold him, at his Country's call, magnanimously renouncing his retreat, putting his fame at risk, and eclipsing even the glory of his military life by his lustre as a Statesman. A second time he retires with the blessings of millions; and as though God delighted to honor him, and to exhibit the greatness of his Servant, we behold him afterwards accepting the office of Lieutenant-General of our Armies. Under these manly honors he hath sunk to the Grave. God in mercy hath removed him, lest we should think him immortal, and pay to a creature that adoration which is alone due to the glorious Creator.

"I stand not here, my Brethren, to pronounce his eulogium. Appoint what Orator you will, he can never rise to the height so noble a theme demands.-----The NAME is above what Grecian or Roman story presents, and it would require more than Grecian or Roman eloquence to do it justice. That calamity which has sought to tarnish his fame, shall soon become dumb; and the name of WASHINGTON be revered until the fashion of this world has wholly passed away.

"Suffer me only to add, Let us be grateful to God for sparing him so long, and making him the instrument of so many services; let the Death we so loudly lament serve to unite us as American Citizens; and let us depend upon that Almighty Arm which can still protect and deliver us."

HISTORICAL ANECDOTE.

WHEN the illustrious Alfred, King of Britain, was repulsed by an army superior to his own, he was obliged to submit to the wretched necessity of the times. Accordingly he assumed a disguise the most likely to conceal him, and after having properly disposed of his family, and settled a method of communication with some trusty friends, he engaged himself in the service of his own cow-herd. The wife of the herdman was ignorant of the rank of her royal guest, and seeing him one day busy by the fire side, in trimming his bow and arrows, she desired him to take care of some cakes that were baking at the fire, while she was employed in other domestic affairs; but Alfred, whose thoughts were otherwise engaged, forgot the cakes; and the woman, on her return, finding them burnt, chid the King very severely, telling him, that he was always willing enough to eat her hot cakes, though he was negligent in turning them. The patient Prince entreated her pardon, and promised to be more careful for the future.

INSTANCE of THE INSTINCT of ANIMALS.

A beautiful little spaniel bitch was permitted to range any part of her master's house. She had five puppies, which were one morning during her absence, taken by her master's order, and drowned in a neighboring pond. After much apparent uneasiness, she found them in the pond, and brought them one by one into the parlour, and as she laid the last at her master's feet, looked stedfastly in his face, and expired.

ANECDOTE.

A CLEVER young fellow being at dinner at a friend's house, and observing one of the company fily pocket a table-spoon, let it pass till he prepared to take his leave; and then marching up to the side-board, took one and put it through his button-hole. Upon being asked his motive for so curious a manœuvre, he replied, "I saw my neighbor here at dinner put a spoon in his pocket; and supposing it a customary thing at this house, I preferred taking mine away in my button-hole."

SONNET.

OFF as the clouds in dark succession rise,
When chill December brings the howling blast,
When drives the storm amid the murky skies,
And silent horror over all is cast;
Hid yon high promontory's brow sublime,
Late wrapp'd in sun-bright radiance o'er the tide,
Long brav'd the furies of elements and time,
Emblem of hope reluctant to subside;
Pensive, in these I view the fretful storm
Which casts o'er genius a sad sick'ning gloom;
And the gay morn of life when clouds deform
They bid the mourner languish for the tomb,
Where tears no longer flow, where troubles cease,
And harra's'd merit shall repose in peace.

ALWYN.

ELEGIAC VERSES.

Worthy a place in the corner of every heart.

"Assist them, Hearts from anguish free!
"Assist them, sweet Humanity!"

LANCROANE.

AH, ye who meet stern Winter's frown,
Upheld by fortune's powerful hand,
Who see the chilling snow come down,
With all her comforts at command:

O! think of their less happy doom,
Whom poverty's sharp woes assail!
No sparkling fire, no cheerful room,
Revives their cheek, cold, sunk, and pale,

Deep howls the wind! the pelting rain
Drips through the shatter'd casement cold:
While the sad mother's arms contain
Her infants shivering in their fold:

In vain they raise their piteous cry,
And plead at hungry Nature's call:
Their only food, a Mother's sigh,
Their only warmth, the tears that fall!

Stretch'd on his unfeeling bed,
The wretched Father sinks in grief:
Pale sickness reils upon his head,
And only hopes from death relief.

The parent's tender, mournful eyes,
Mingle their faint and humid beams:
Fresh woes from retrospection rise,
Fresh source from mem'ry's fountain streams!

O, Rich! the transport might be thine,
To soothe their sufferings into peace,
To bid the fun of comfort shine,
And Want's oppressive empire cease!

To see the glow of Health return,
Reanimate their faded cheek!
Life's feeble spark, re-kindled, burn,
And give---what language cannot speak!

On Fancy's pinions oft I roam,
With Pity partner of my flight,
Forget awhile that grief's my own,
And taste a soothing, sweet delight:
Forget the many poignant woes,
That weigh this drooping form to earth;
Where restless Sorrow doth repose,
Scap'd from those ills which gave it birth!

O! ye embark'd for Pleasure's shore,
Restrain awhile the fluttering sail!
At Pity's call! retard the oar,
Nor let her plaintive pleadings fail!

A SONG.

FROM THE SPANISH.

FOR me my fair a wreath has wove,
Where rival flow'rs in union meet;
As oft the kiss'd the gift of love,
Her breath gave sweetness to the sweet.

A bee within a damask rose
Had crept, the nectar'd dew to sip;
But lesser sweets the thief foregoes---
And fixes on Louisa's lip.

There, tasting all the bloom of Spring,
Wak'd by the ripening breath of May,
Th' ungrateful spoiler left his sting,
And with the honey flew away.

[As a tribute of respect to the memory of the FIRST OF MEN, the Museum will be shrouded in black for six weeks.]

In the House of Representatives, on Thursday 19th inst, a message from the President was received, communicating a letter from Tobias Lear, Esq. private Secretary to GENERAL WASHINGTON.

Mount Vernon, Dec. 25, 1799.

Sir, It is with inexpressible grief, that I have to announce to you the death of the great and good General Washington. He died last evening between 10 and 11 o'clock, after a short illness of about 24 hours. His disorder was an inflammatory sore throat, which proceeded from a cold, of which he made but little complaint on Friday. On Saturday morning about 3 o'clock he became ill. Doctor Dick attended him in the morning, and Doctor Craik, of Alexandria, and Doctor Brown, of Port Tobacco, were soon after called in. Every medical assistance was offered, but without the desired effect. His last scene corresponded with the whole tenor of his life. Not a groan nor a complaint escaped him, in extreme distress. With perfect resignation and a full possession of his reason, he closed his well spent life.

I have the honor to be &c.
TOBIAS LEAR.

FUNERAL PROCESSION.

At a meeting of Committee from the Corporation of the City, and from several Societies, held at the City-Hall, on Wednesday evening December 25, 1799, to make the necessary Arrangements, for paying suitable Honors to the Memory of the late General WASHINGTON.

The Mayor was appointed to take the chair.

Resolved, That the FUNERAL PROCESSION take place, on THURSDAY, the 31st instant.

Resolved, that a Sub-Committee, consisting of five members, be appointed to have full power to prepare a plan and carry the same into full execution.

Brigadier General Hughes, Brigadier General Stevens, Colonel Morton, Major Fautle, and Major Stagg were accordingly appointed.

(Signed) RICHARD VARICK,
Chairman.

Teste,
JOHN STAGG, jun. Sec'y.

At a Meeting of the above Select Committee,

Resolved, that it be recommended to the several Societies who purpose uniting, as Societies, in the above mentioned solemnity to meet, as early as possible, to make their arrangements, and report to the Chairman, by Saturday evening next, the probable number who will join in the procession.

Dec. 25. JAMES M. HUGHES,
Chairman.

The Senate of the United States have come to an order, that the members wear black during the session, and that the chair of the President be shrouded with black, overhung with curtains of black, and the whole chamber lined in a similar manner---as a testimony of respect for the memory of their beloved and regretted late fellow citizen GEORGE WASHINGTON.

FUNERAL OBSEQUIES.

George-Town, Dec. 20.

On Wednesday last, the mortal part of WASHINGTON the Great---the Father of his country and the Friend of man, was consigned to the tomb, with solemn honors and funeral pomp.

A multitude of persons assembled, from many miles around, at Mount Vernon, the choice abode and last residence of the illustrious Chief. There were the groves---the spacious avenues---the beautiful and sublime scenes---the noble mansion---but, alas! the august inhabitant was now no more. That great soul was gone. His mortal part was there indeed; but ah! how affecting! how awful the spectacle of such worth and greatness, thus, to mortal eyes, fallen!---Yes! fallen! fallen!

In the long and lofty portico, where oft the Hero walked in all his glory, now lay the shrouded corpse. The countenance still composed and serene, seemed to express the dignity of the spirit, which lately dwelt in that hallowed form. There those who paid the last sad honors to the benefactor of his country, took an impressive--a farewell view.

On the ornament, at the head of the coffin, was inscribed, Suave Ad JUDICIUM--about the middle of the coffin, GLORIA DEO, and on the silver plate,

GENERAL.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

departed this life on the 14th December, 1799, Æt. 68.

Between three and four o'clock, the sound of artillery from a vessel in the river, firing minute guns, awoke a fresh out solemn sorrow--the corpse was moved--a band of music with mournful melody melted the soul into all the tenderness of woe.

The procession was formed, and moved on in the following order:

Cavalry, Infantry, Guards, (with arms reversed)--Music, Clergy, The General's horse with his saddle, harness, and pistols.

THE CORPSE.

Pall bearers--Col. Simms, Col. Ramsay, Col. Payne, Col. Gilpin, Col. Marshall, Col. Little.

Mourners, Masonic Brethren, Citizens.

When the procession had arrived at the bottom of the elevated lawn, on the banks of the Potomak, where the family vault is placed, the cavalry halted, the infantry marched towards the Mount and formed their lines--the clergy, the masonic brothers and the citizens descended to the vault, and the funeral service of the church was performed. The firing was repeated from the vessel in the river and the sounds echoed from the woods and hills around.

Three general discharges from the infantry--the cavalry and 11 pieces of artillery, which lined the bank of the Potomak back of the vault, paid the last tribute to the entombed Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States, and to the venerable departed hero.

The sun was now setting. Alas! the sun of glory was set forever. No, the name of WASHINGTON--the American President and General--will triumph over death--the unclouded brightness of his glory will illuminate future ages.

Philadelphia, Dec. 24.

THE SENATE

Last Monday sent the following Letter of condolence to the President of the United States, by a Committee of its Members, to which the President returned the annexed Answer:

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Senate of the United States respectfully take leave, Sir, to express to you their deep regret for the loss their country sustains in the death of General GEORGE WASHINGTON.

This event, so distressing to all our fellow citizens, must be peculiarly heavy to you, who have long been associated with him in deeds of patriotism. Permit us, Sir, to mingle our tears with yours; on this occasion it is manly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis is no common calamity to the world: our country mourns her father. The Almighty disposer of human events has taken from us our greatest benefactor and ornament. It becomes us to submit with reverence to him, who "maketh darkness his Pavilion."

With patriotic pride we review the life of our WASHINGTON, and compare him with those of other countries who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern names are diminished before him. Greatness and guilt have too often been allied; but his fame is whiter than it is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtue. It reproveth the intemperance of their ambition and darkened the splendor of victory. The scene is closed, and we are no longer anxious lest misfortune should tully his glory; he has travelled on to the end of his journey, and carried with him an increasing weight of honor; he has deposited it safely, where misfortune cannot tarnish it, where malice cannot blot it. Favored of Heaven, he departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity; magnanimous in death, the darkness of the grave could not obscure his brightness.

Such was the man whom we deplore. Thanks to God, his glory is consummated; WASHINGTON yet lives on earth in his spotless example--his spirit is in Heaven.

Let his countrymen consecrate the memory of the heroic General, the patriotic Statesman, and the virtuous Sage; let them teach their children never to forget that the fruits of his labors, and his example are their inheritance.

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

I receive with the most respectful and affectionate sentiments, in this impressive address, the obliging expressions of your regret, for the loss our country has sustained, in the death of her most esteemed, beloved and admired Citizen.

In the multitude of my thoughts and recollections, on this melancholy event, you will permit me only to say, that I have seen him in the days of Adversity, in some of the scenes of his deepest and most trying perplexities; I have also attended him in his highest elevation, and most prosperous felicity; with uniform admiration of his wisdom, moderation and constancy.

Among our original associates, in that memorable League of the Continent in 1774, which first expressed the sovereign will of a Free Nation in America, he was the only one remaining in the General Government. Although with a constitution more enfeebled than his, at an age when he thought it necessary to prepare for retirement, I feel myself alone, bereaved of my last brother; yet I derive a strong consolation from the unanimous disposition, which appears in all ages and classes to mingle their sorrows with mine, on this common calamity to the world.

The life of our WASHINGTON cannot suffer by comparison with those of other countries, who have been most celebrated and exalted by fame. The attributes and decorations of royalty, could have only served to eclipse the majesty of those virtues, which made him, from being a modest citizen, a more resplendent luminary.

Misfortune, had he lived, could hereafter have sullied his glory only with those superficial minds, who, believing that characters and actions are marked by success alone, rarely debase to enjoy it. Malice could never blot his honor, and envy made him a singular exception to her universal rule--For himself he had lived enough, to life and to glory. For his fellow citizens, if their prayers could have been answered, he would have been immortal. For me his departure is at a most unfortunate moment. Trusting, however, in the wise and righteous dominion of Providence over the passions of men, and the results of their councils and actions, as well as over their lives, nothing remains for me but humble resignation.

His example is now complete, and it will teach wisdom and virtue to magistrates, citizens and men, not only in the present age, but in future generations, as long as our littorally shall be read. If a Trojan found a Pnyx, a Marcus Aurelius can never want biographers, eulogists, or historians.

JOHN ADAMS.

United States, Dec. 23d, 1799.

Monday, in the HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Mr. Marshall made a report in part from the joint committee appointed to consider a suitable mode for commemorating the Death of General WASHINGTON.

He reported the following resolutions:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a marble Monument be erected by the United States at the Capitol of the City of Washington, and that the family of General WASHINGTON be requested to permit his body to be deposited under it, and that the monument be so designed as to commemorate the great events of his military and political life.

And be it further resolved, That there be a funeral procession from Congress Hall to the German Lutheran Church in memory of General GEORGE WASHINGTON, on Thursday the 26th inst. and that an Oration be prepared at the request of Congress, to be delivered before both Houses on that day; and that the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives be desired to request one of the members of Congress to prepare and deliver the same.

And be it further resolved, That it be recommended to the people of the United States, to wear crape on their left arm, as a mourning, for thirty days.

And be it further resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to direct a copy of these resolutions to be transmitted to Mrs. Washington, assuring her of the profound respect Congress will ever bear to her person and character, of their condolence on the late affecting dispensation of Providence, and entreating her assent to the interment of the remains of GENERAL WASHINGTON, in the manner expressed in the first resolution.

And be it further resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to issue his proclamation, notifying to the people throughout the United States the recommendation contained in the third resolution.

These resolutions passed both Houses unanimously.

COURT OF HYMEN.

O HYMEN! how delightful are thy bands!
What rapturous delights thy votaries prove!
Pleasure begins when erst they join their hands,
And joy increases as they live to love.

MARRIED

On Wednesday evening, the 20th ult at Woodbridge, by the Rev Mr Roe, Mr ROBERT LUCKY, son of this city, to Miss GRACE MOORE, of that place.

On Thursday evening, the 5th inst. at Flatlands, by the Rev Mr Lowe, Mr JACOBUS RYDER, of Gravesend, Long-Island, to Miss ANNE COWENHOVEN, of that place.

On Thursday evening, the 12th inst. by the Rev Mr Lowe, Mr JOHN BROWN, of Gawanes, to Miss POLLY HUBBARD, of Flatlands, Long-Island.

On Thursday evening, the 19th inst. by the Rev Mr Schoonmaker, Mr STEPHEN B. WILLIAMSON, of Gravesend, to Miss SARAH ALEXANDER, of Brooklyn.

Same evening, by the Rev Mr O'Brien, Captain JOHN HANSON, to Miss SALLY SWEENEY, both of this city.

On Tuesday evening last, by the Rev Mr Kuyper, Captain JAMES LIVING, to Miss ELLEN McQUEEN, of this city.

Same evening, at Gawanes, by the Rev Mr Schoonmaker, Mr TRAUNTS VAN PELT, to Miss TAYLOR, both of that place.

DIED.

On Wednesday, the 18th inst. at Fishkill, after a long and complicated affection of the throat, the much lamented wife of John Carman, Esq. In her society has lost a worthy member, her disconsolate husband an affectionate wife, and her children a tender parent.

"The sweet remembrance of the Just,
Shall flourish when they sleep in dust."

THEATRE.

On Monday evening, the THEATRE will be opened with A MONODY, on the DEATH of

Gen. George Washington;

To be spoken by Mr. COOPER, the Stage in Mourning

After which will be presented, (never performed here)

A DRAMA, in five acts, written by M. MONVEL called, the

ROBBERY.

To which will be Added, the FARCE of,
The SHIPWRECK.

Places for the Boxes, and Tickets as usual.

Box 8s. Pit 6s. Gallery 4s.

Vivat Respublica.

MEDICAL and PHILOSOPHICAL BOOKS

For sale by Peter Burtell, no. 33 Beekman-street, JAMES's Medical Dictionary, 3 vols. folio. Smellie, with elegant plates. Albini Tabula. Morgagni. Halli. Philologiae, 8 vols 4 to. Van Swieten's Commentaries, 5 vols. 4 to. Buffon's Natural History, 34 vols French. Plutarch's Works, 22 vols 8 do. French. Abbi Raynal's History of the Indies, 5 vols 4 to. with an atlas of the World, French. Anachasis' Travels, 7 vols 8 do. French. Boulanger's Works, 6 vols 8 do. French. Polybius' Military History, 6 vols 4 to. with Military plates, French. St. Pierre's Studies of Nature, in English and French. A number of excellent Medical Books, from the collection of an eminent Physician, retired from practice.

P. Burtell does all kinds of Book Binding.

Dec. 21, 1799.

8s. 1d

10,000 DOLLARS.

Tickets in the State Road Lottery, no. 2,

In whole, half, or quarter Shares, for sale by John Harrison, no. 3 Peck-slip.

Almanacks for 1800,

By the groce, dozen, or single.

ALSO,

A general assortment of BOOKS AND STATIONARY.

COURT of APOLLO.

MASONIC SONG.

Tune "Hearts of Oak."

NO left in the world can with Masons compare,
So ancient, so noble the badge is they wear,
That all other orders, however esteem'd,
Inferior to Masonry justly are deem'd.

CHORUS.

We always are free,
And forever agree;
Supporting each other,
Brother helps Brother.

No mortals on earth are so friendly as we.

When first attic fire mortals' glory became,
Tho' small was the spark, it soon grew to a flame;
As Phœbus celestial transcendently bright,
It spreads o'er the world a fresh torrent of light.
We always, &c.

The greatest of monarchs, the wisest of men,
Freemasonry honor'd again and again;
And nobles have quitted all other delights,
With joy to preside o'er our mystical rites.
We always, &c.

Tho' some may pretend we've no secrets to know,
Such idle opinions their ignorance show;
While others, with rapture, cry out, "They're reveal'd!"
In Freemasonry's bosom they still lie conceal'd.
We always, &c.

Coxcomb's pretensions may fry what they can,
Abuse us, ill use us, and laugh at our plan;
We'll temper our mortar, enliven our souls,
And join in a chorus o'er full-flowing bowls.
We always, &c.

KOTZEBUE'S WORKS.

Just published, and for sale at N. Judah's Book Store,
No. 47 Water-Street.

PIZARRO, a Tragedy, price 2s. LOVERS VOWS,
a Comedy. COUNT BENYOWSKY, do. STRAN-GER, do.

CONSTANT LOVERS, or William and Jeanette, a Novel, price 6s.

Encomiums on the works of Van Kotzebue would be superfluous.

ANDREW R. MILLER,
No. 99 William-Street.

IN addition to his assortment of DRY GOODS, has received a handsome assortment of Plain and Spangled paper Hats, richly Spangled Silk do. Plain black Paper and Crape-do. Rich Cloak-Satin, different colors. Pelings, &c.
Fine black and white Laces and Edgings. Fine India Book Muslins. Wadding for interlinings. Silk Velvet of different colors. Furniture Dimity. A large assortment of Satin and China Ribbons, worthy the attention of country merchants.

THOMAS PEDLEY,

Perfumer and Hair Dresser, Respectfully informs the public that he continues his business at no. 214 Water-Street, near Crane-Wharf, where he has for sale, just from London, a complete assortment of Perfumery, and Ladies' Braids of all sizes and colours.
Gentlemen's Wigs and Sculps made on the shortest notice.
December 1st 1811

Stamped Paper.

BONDS, NOTES, BILLS of LADING, &c. for Sale
by J. Harrison, no. 3 Peck-Slip.

SALE BY MORTGAGE.

WHEREAS William Bedlow of the city of New-York, in the State of New-York, gentleman, and Catharine his wife, in order to secure the payment of four hundred and sixty pounds, with lawful interest, unto Samuel Akerly, of the said city, Ship Wright, on or before the sixteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, according to the condition of one certain Bond or Obligation, bearing date with the Indenture of Mortgage hereafter mentioned. And also, for and in consideration of the sum of five shillings to them in hand paid, by the said Samuel Akerly, did by Indenture of mortgage, bearing date the 16th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1797, grant, bargain, alien, release, enfeoff, convey and confirm unto the said Samuel Akerly, and to his heirs and assigns for ever, all those three certain lots of ground, situate lying and being in the seventh ward of the city of New-York, being part of the farm late belonging to Hendrick Rutgers, deceased, and known and distinguished in a certain map or chart thereof made, by lots number two hundred and twenty nine, two hundred and thirty, and two hundred and thirty one; Bounded southerly in front by Henry-Street, northerly in the year by lots number ninety eight, ninety nine, and one one hundred, belonging to the said parties of the first part; easterly by lot number two hundred and thirty two, also belonging to the said parties of the first part; and westerly by lots number two hundred and twenty five, two hundred and twenty six, two hundred and twenty seven, & two hundred & twenty eight, belonging to the said parties of the first part.
Each of the said hereby granted lots of ground containing in breadth in front and rear each twenty five feet, and in length on each side one hundred and eight feet. And whereas the said indenture of mortgage contains a power in the words following, to wit: "And if default shall happen to be made in the payment of the said sum of four hundred and sixty pounds, with interest as aforesaid, or any part thereof, on the day of payment above limited, that then and at all times thereafter it shall and may be lawful for the said Samuel Akerly, his executors, administrators or assigns, and the are hereby fully authorized and empowered to sell and dispose of the said hereby granted three lots of ground and premises above-mentioned, with the appurtenances, at public auction, to the highest bidder, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, and in due form of law to sign, seal, execute and deliver good and sufficient deeds of conveyance for the same premises to the purchaser or purchaser thereof, his, her, or their heirs and assigns for ever.
And out of the monies arising by or from the sale thereof to retain and keep the said sum of four hundred and sixty pounds, and the interest thereof, or so much thereof as may be then due and unpaid, together with all costs, charges and expenses occasioned by such default, rendering the overplus money (if any there be) unto the said William Bedlow, his executors, administrators, or assigns. Which sale so to be made by virtue of these presents, is hereby ratified and confirmed, and shall, and is hereby declared to be, at all times forever thereafter a firm and sufficient bar and preclusion to the equity of redemption of the said hereby granted premises, and to any claim or pretension that may be made thereto by them or either of them, the said parties of the first part, their heirs or assigns, or any other person or persons whomsoever, lawfully claiming or to claim by, from, or under them, or any of them. And whereas default hath been made in the payment of the said four hundred and sixty pounds, and the interest thereof, according to the condition of the said bond or obligation, which yet remains due and unpaid, Therefore notice is hereby given to all to whom it may concern, that pursuant to the power contained in the said indenture of mortgage and according to the directions of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction at the Tontine Coffeehouse, in the city of New-York, on the fifth day of May next ensuing the date hereof, at twelve o'clock at noon of the same day, for the purpose of satisfying the principle and interest due, and to become due on the said bond or obligation. Dated New-York, 1st November, 1799.

PRISCILLA AKERLY, Executrix of the last Will JACOBIAH AKERLY, and Testament of THOMAS DRAKE, & Samuel Akerly
ARCHIBALD KERLY, Executors deceased.

DANCING.

Mr. DUBOIS, respectfully informs the Young Gentlemen of this city, that he has opened his Evening School at Lovell's (formerly Hunter's) Hotel, Broad-way, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from 3 o'clock to 5 ill 9. The terms will be made known by applying at the Hotel.

Printing

In all its branches, performed with neatness, accuracy, and dispatch.

GEORGE G. BURBET,

No. 76 PEARL-STREET, NEW-YORK.

OFFERS the Ladies, Gentlemen, and Public at large,
the following articles for sale very low for cash.

HAIR POWDER.	Noisau,
Best scented Marchalle,	Red Lavender,
do. Violet,
do. Bergamot,	Variety of Cordials,
do. Plain,	Spirits of Cochlearie,
BROWN POWDER.	Ess. Antiscorbutic, for the
Marchalle,	gums,
Dutchess,	Syrup Pectoral, for cold
Bergamot,	cough, and consumption.
Orris do.	The genuine Balsam of Life
Violet do.	which will expel all pain
POMATUMS	of the head and Stomach.
Marchalle,	Pectoral Lozenges.
Dutchess,	Peppermint do.
Vanille,	SHAVING SOAPS.
Elliotthope,	Best Naples,
Millefleurs,	Shaving Powder,
Bergamot,	Ess. of Soap,
Citron,	Windsor,
Lavender,	Italian Squares.
Bears Grease.
SCENTS.	Plate Powder
Musk,	Almond Paste
Bergamot,	Specific Tincture for the
Citron,	head-ach,
Lavender,	Superfine Pearl Powder,
Rhine,	Superfine Rouge,
Rosemary.	Lip Salve,
SCENTED WATERS.	Silk Puffs,
Cologne,	Swandown Puffs,
Hungary,	Combs of all kinds,
Lavender,	Comb Brushes,
Honey water,	Tooth Brushes,
Millefleurs,	Tooth Powder,
Cammy,	Opist do.
Bergamot,	Writing paper,
Arquebuse, for swellings,	Wax, Waters,
bruises, contusions, cuts,	Ink-powder, Quills,
scars, &c.	Blackening balls,
	Tupce Iron,
Orange flower,	Shaving boxes and brushes
Rose,	A variety of other articles

SALE BY MORTGAGE.

WHEREAS William Tyler, of the city of New-York, Mariner, by an assignment or instrument of writing, bearing date the seventh day of February, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine, did assign, transfer, and let over unto David Harrison, all that certain lot, piece, and parcel of ground and house, thereon standing, situate, lying, and being in the fifth ward of the city of New-York, for the residue of the term of twenty-one years, which commenced the seventeenth day of January, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight; which house and lot was then in the actual possession of the said William Tyler. To have and to hold the same, with the appurtenances, unto the said David Harrison, his executors, administrators, and assigns; from the date of the said assignment; for, and during all the rest, residue, and remainder of the said term of twenty-one years, provided that if the said William should pay to the said David, three hundred and fifty dollars, according to the condition of a certain bond or obligation, bearing even date with the said assignment, then the said assignment, or transfer, to be void.
But if default should happen to be made in the said payment, then the said David was declared to have full power to sell, and dispose of the said house and lot of ground aforesaid, and premises, at public auction. And whereas default hath been made in the payment of the said money, according to the said condition. Now therefore, notice is hereby given to all persons that the said assigned premises, and all right, title and interest of the said William, will be sold at public auction, at the premises, on Monday, the fifth day of May next, at twelve o'clock at noon of the same day, for the purpose of satisfying the principal and interest due on the same bond or obligation. Dated this 1st day of November, 1799.

75---6th

DAVID HARRISON.

An Elegant Assortment of Ladies and Gentlemen's MOROCCO POCKET BOOKS,

for sale at no. 3 Peck-Slip.

Printed and Published by JOHN HARRISON,
No. 3 Peck-Slip.

[Twelve Shillings per annum.]

age,

the old.

in.

life

minu

ch.

e

,

the

hes

ies

ork-

ear-

land

and eece,

uate,

ew-

ears,

one oufe

Wij

ap-

ions,

d vi-

ain-thathree of a paid

oid

payow-

und reasury, ce is ifes,

will

, the f the

and this

N.

i

493